According to the Connecticut Association of Adult Day Centers (CAADC), there are two different models of Adult Day Care: the social model and the medical model. The social model is designed for individuals who do not require direct assistance with medical or personal care needs, while the medical model provides social services and routine direct personal care, nursing intervention, rehabilitation, and/or therapeutic recreation. Please ask the day center for which model of care they are certified.
