The Learning Institute[™]

The only local experts in dementia-specific, culturally sensitive, caregiver education.

alzheimer's  association[®]

the compassion to care, the leadership to conquer

Who are we?

The Alzheimer’s Association is the leading voluntary health organization in Alzheimer’s care, support and research.

The Learning Institute™ was established in 2000 to provide dementia-specific, culturally appropriate education programs and consultative services.

- Person centered, culturally sensitive, dementia specific education
- Revitalize the quality of dementia care in healthcare facilities
- Online and in-person training – empowering all types of caregivers with the latest standards of care

We’re specialists in educating people on how to provide optimal care for the complex needs of persons with dementia. The process has profound, positive impact on the lives of both care receivers and caregivers alike.

Our proven strategy has received national recognition for its ability to transform healthcare professionals and facilities into dementia specialists. And with aging baby boomers on the horizon, now’s the time!

What is Train the Trainer®?

A powerful, professional product developed by the Learning Institute™ that’s designed to provide staff educators and professional caregivers with the latest training in dementia care.

- Elevate your organization’s success in caring for individuals with Alzheimer’s and related dementias
- Improve the quality of life of those under your care & consumer satisfaction
- Increase staff productivity, job satisfaction and retention
- Increase your organization’s proficiency in dementia care

The knowledge we’re sharing is invaluable to the success of your organization. Employees of residential long term care facilities, assisted living communities, adult day programs and home health care agencies are all encouraged to attend.

(For a complete course listing, schedule and registration form, see pages 11 & 12.)

Graduation Information

Upon completion of the seven core courses, a participant is considered a graduate of Train the Trainer®. For an explanation of graduate benefits, see page 9.

Core Courses

1 Core

Nuts and Bolts of Dementia Care

This course lays the foundation for understanding dementia care by exploring the background of dementia, diagnosis, stages of the disease, treatments and research. Considerable attention is given to developing caregiving techniques from a cultural perspective. Emphasis is placed on training techniques useful for all courses in Train the Trainer®. While each course is a stand alone, it is recommended that this course be taken as the first in the series. (3-hour course)

2 Core

Effective Communication in Dementia Care

Utilizing interactive training, this course provides the learner with information on verbal, nonverbal and written communication techniques for persons with dementia. In addition, special considerations involving cultural influences, hearing and visual impairments will be addressed. (3-hour course)

3 Core

Problem Solving & Managing Behavioral Issues in Dementia Care

A cultural perspective for caregiving is used to provide participants with information and techniques for Activities of Daily Living: bathing, dressing, eating, toileting and ambulation. The challenging behaviors of agitation, combativeness, hallucinations, incontinence, sleeplessness, sundowning, unpredictable situations and wandering are explained and potential solutions are developed in an interactive environment. (6-hour course)

4 Core

End of Life

This course assists caregivers of individuals with advanced Alzheimer's disease and related dementias by providing information and techniques for physical and emotional care issues. It explores concepts of grief, guilt, and decision making to maximize the dignity, comfort and respect of individuals with the disease. Ideas will also be examined regarding how to help in anticipatory and post death bereavement. Considerable time is devoted to caregiving techniques and pain management for end of life. (6-hour course)

5 Core

Sexuality & Intimacy

Problems and concerns about intimacy in Alzheimer's disease and other dementias are varied and complex. This course explores the multiple ways affection and self-esteem needs are expressed by persons with dementia as well as changes in behavior such as bold behavior, exposure, depression and misinterpretation. Sensitive to the cultural perspectives, appropriate interventions are discussed as well as adaptations for home and residential setting. (3-hour course)

6 Core

Spirituality

This course provides ways caregivers can support persons with dementia in body, mind and spirit. Participants will gain an understanding of spiritual and religious care. Various religious traditions are highlighted with an appreciation for culture. Techniques for assisting the person to feel connected are discussed. (3-hour course)

7 Core

Meaningful Activities for Dementia Specific Care

Activities represent who we are and what we're about. For the person with dementia, they can mean the difference between feeling loved and needed or feeling unloved and unnecessary. Using an interactive approach and new techniques such as the Montessori Method, this course provides participants opportunities to explore how daily living activities can become meaningful activities. (3-hour course)

Electives

8 Elective

Strategies for Creating Better Care Environments

The potential of the physical environment, both internal and external, to play an active role in shaping and supporting independence, stimulation and quality of life for individuals with Alzheimer's disease and related dementias is developed in this course. Special emphasis is placed on principles behind design and the importance of utilizing the environment as a therapeutic tool. Interactive experiences expose the learner to utilizing design principles so that they can become active participants in the evolution of the care environment. (3-hour course)

9 Elective

Music & Dementia - Making a Connection

This course explores ways in which music can be utilized with persons with dementia to decrease challenging behaviors, recall memories and provide means of communication. Through interactive activities, participants will discover first hand the benefits of music. Emphasis is placed on how music can be adapted to work with persons in all stages of the disease. Basic recommendations are discussed regarding the appropriate use of music in residential settings. (3-hour course)

10 Elective

Dementia, Art & The Quality of Life

The therapeutic benefits of using art in caregiving are explored with an emphasis on cultural applications; the use of art as a preverbal and nonverbal expression of communication; and the importance of art in recognizing changes in ability throughout the stages of the disease. (3-hour course)

11 Elective

How to Work With Families

This course teaches health care workers how to work effectively with families and other caregivers of individuals through the stages of Alzheimer's disease and related dementias. It explores the relationship between the professional caregiver and the family caregiver and how family systems change with the introduction of paid supports (i.e., in home and out of home care). Participants also develop sensitivity to acculturation as well as the multicultural and generational needs of the caregiver and health care worker. (3-hour course)

12 Elective

Health, Wellness... and You!

This course teaches the importance of maintaining health and wellness in all areas of life. The Wellness Tree (a segmented outline of positive health practices) illustrates topics including fitness, nutrition, stress and cultural & biological influences on quality of living. Participants will learn lifestyle changes, strategies to improve health and wellness, and applications for working with persons with dementia. (6-hour course)
