Translating New Treatments Into Real World Care

Dear Colleagues and Friends,

On behalf of the Korean Dementia Association (KDA), it is my great pleasure to welcome you to AAIC Advancements IC-KDA 2027, jointly hosted by the Alzheimer's Association and the Korean Dementia Association in Seoul, Korea.

We are entering an exciting new era in dementia research and care. Remarkable advances in disease-modifying therapies, biomarkers, and diagnostic technologies are transforming our approach to Alzheimer's disease and related dementias. However, scientific breakthroughs can only make a meaningful difference when they are successfully translated into everyday clinical practice.

Under the theme “Translating New Treatments Into Real-World Care,” this joint conference will focus on bridging the gap between scientific discovery and clinical implementation. The scientific program will explore emerging therapeutics, innovative diagnostic approaches, brain health and risk-reduction strategies, and evolving models of dementia care. Particular attention will be given to how these advances can be implemented safely, effectively, and equitably across diverse healthcare settings.

International collaboration is more important than ever as we navigate this rapidly evolving field. Healthcare systems around the world face different opportunities and challenges in bringing new treatments and diagnostic tools into clinical practice. Through this partnership between the Alzheimer's Association and the Korean Dementia Association, we hope to create a valuable platform for sharing experiences, learning from one another, and developing practical approaches and best practices that can improve dementia care worldwide.

We also hope this meeting will strengthen collaboration among researchers, clinicians, and industry partners, particularly across the Asia-Pacific region, and help accelerate the translation of scientific progress into meaningful benefits for patients and their families.

Beyond the scientific discussions, we warmly invite you to enjoy the vibrant city of Seoul, reconnect with colleagues, and build new friendships.

We look forward to welcoming you to Seoul in April 2027 and sharing an inspiring and productive meeting together.

Warm regards,

Kee Hyung Park, MD, PhD
