

Hospice Services

A hospice promotes a holistic approach to the relief and care of the person in the late stages of a terminal illness, usually an expectancy of six months, which has been confirmed by the physician. The hospice team is composed of different health care providers who deliver specialized treatment, including pain management.

The agencies listed below may offer a hospice model in the home for persons who are not in the final stage of illness. For general information, call the Kansas Hospice and Palliative Care Organization at (888) 202-LIFE or the Missouri Hospice and Palliative Care Organization at (816) 350-7702.
