

Understanding Alzheimer's in Native Populations

A virtual presentation for professionals in Healthcare and Aging services

Friday, April 26, 2024
Noon - 1:15 p.m.

Indigenous communities experience Alzheimer's and dementia at a significantly higher rate than White Americans. This virtual, no-cost presentation explores dementia care in American Indian communities, stressing the importance of integrating cultural and spiritual practices into sensitive care. Participants will also gain insights into the significance of research and culturally appropriate dementia assessment tools, which could lead to earlier and more accurate diagnoses and improved care.

PRESENTERS

Melissa Blind, PhD

Senior Research Associate, Memory Keepers
Medical Discovery Team - Health Equity

Richard Wright, LADC, CI

Indian Health Board

Register Online

bit.ly/3IFfpSh

