

Early-Stage Program Guide: Summer Sessions

The Alzheimer's Association Oregon & SW Washington Chapter is excited to offer a variety of programs for individuals in the early stages of Alzheimer's disease or other dementias, including those with mild cognitive impairment. If you have questions about the programs or would like to register, please call 800-272-3900.

artNOW

Join the Alzheimer's Association at the Portland Art Museum for a series of relaxing and creative gallery tours and art-making classes for individuals living with dementia and their care partners. By combining discussion-based gallery tours of the museum's collection with art-making activities, artNOW encourages experimentation with a wide range of materials. This program is free, but space is limited, and reservations are required.

Memories in the Making

Memories in the Making® (MIM) is a fine-arts program specifically designed for people in the early stages of Alzheimer's disease, other dementias, and mild cognitive impairment. MIM provides a creative and nonverbal way to communicate and capture precious moments through art. The creative process and the stories that evolve from MIM are as important and meaningful as the artwork itself. No art experience is necessary.

Sing Here Now

Sing Here Now is a community choir that provides an opportunity for people in the early stages of Alzheimer's disease, as well as their care partners, to enjoy music and socialize with others. Although the focus of the choir is social interaction, participants also benefit from the wellness benefits of singing, such as reduced stress and improved mood. No musical experience necessary.
